

The Main Propulsion Division handles the ship's four turbines, and oversees the absorption of enough steam into the turbines to adequately drive them. "M" Division's evaporators also produce the fresh and feed water necessary to Enterprise shipboard life.

